

Dr. Faith Harris

People of Faith and Environmental Justice: The Intersection of Theology and Ecology

Dr. Harris's visit is Sponsored by the Blakely Fund, the D. L. Jordan Endowment, the Environmental Studies Department and the Benne Center.

An interfaith panel discussion addressing the theological and scriptural foundations for environmental justice issues. How do our various faith traditions impact how we view and care for the world around us? Does the same perspective that allows for the destruction and exploitation of the earth have wider implications for how we view the earth's inhabitants?

The panel will feature Dr. Faith Harris, visiting from Virginia Union University in Richmond; and representatives from local Jewish, Christian, and Muslim congregations. All are welcome!

Wednesday, September 11, 2019 • 7:00pm
Williams Memorial Baptist Church,
2105 Carroll Ave NW, Roanoke, VA